Donagh And Kevin Prepare For A Tough Round Eight

Monday, 21 September 2009

After the drama Donagh and Kevin had at the Fisher Engineering Lakeland Stages Rally, the crew are now ready to get their championship back on track this weekend at round eight, The Bushwacker Rally.

After the drama Donagh and Kevin had at the Fisher Engineering Lakeland Stages Rally, the crew are now ready to get their championship back on track this weekend at round eight, The Bushwacker Rally.

Donagh and Kevin are looking forward to the rally and the battle with Raymond Johnston, Neil McCance, Damian Tourish and Craig Breen to name but a few.

The Donegal crew recently did some testing to prepare for the event and also to make sure the car was cured of the problems that occurred at the Lakeland Stages Rally a couple of weeks ago.

Further inspection at VSM's headquarters after the Lakeland found out that a wire had broken in the wiring loom and the car was unable to run.

The Sunoco Fuels Group N category is now wide open with Donagh Kelly and Raymond Johnston tied on 48 points with three rounds left. Mark Massey and Neil McCance are not far behind on 37 and 35 points.

The event starts at 9am with the crews due to tackle ten stages in the County Tyrone forests. After the final stage the crews will be returning to the finish ramp at the Silverbirch Hotel in Omagh around 6pm.
